Senator Dolliver's Lecture.

The final lecture in the Star Lecture course was an excellent one and was delivered by Senator J. P. Dolliver at Music Hall, last week Tuesday evening. He was gracefully introduced by Judge Walter P. Smith and commanded the closest attention of his audience for nearly two hours. He paid a worthy tribute to the late Senator Ross, referring to his noted speech in Congress, and saying that his native state, town and the community in which he lived might well be proud of such a man. He said that while the veteran statesman in the Senate knew not which way to turn when they faced the new colonial problems the new Senator from Vermont pointed out the way and led them from darkness into light. His tribute to our townsman was received with hearty applause.

SUPERBLY READY FOR EASTER

Have you Seen our Easter Things?

If so, weren't you delighted with their beauty, their unusualness? Widely different they are in every detail from the ordinary ready-to-wear things.

All that is due to our care and preciseness of selections. We saw to it that every garment had the most prominent of the Parisian style marks. Then we have an exceptionally fine gathering of small things—leather goods, belts, ladies' furnishings, underwear, gloves—everything new and fashionable.

While as yet we have only mentioned the qualities that make our wearing apparel desirable, to fashion seekers—we would call your attention to the price problem. It isn't as you'd expect, the prices are hardly in keeping with the numerous virtues we try so hard to do justice to in type.

We have had an eye open for money value, and cannot find words which will more than mildly express the price advantages you can obtain by supplying your needs here. Our strongest argument is to invite you to come in and see—then the goods WILL talk.

Among the many novelties we have new

Good Clothes,

(The Hart, Schaffner & Marx kind.)

Men, who like to look spick and span, used to go to the Tailor because their garments, besides being well made and of good material, gave them a distinguished look.

Most of these same men have learned the value of our excellent garments and are Now Wearing Them.

A trial has brought out their good points. They look snappy when new and retain the look as long as they are worn.
